'You're Hired!' Careers for Chemists in New Company, Contract and Charity Sectors

Wednesday 4 November 2015, BioPark, Welwyn Garden City, UK

Synopsis

UK jobs for doctoral chemists considering industrial research are no longer predominantly offered by multinational pharmaceutical enterprises (Big Pharma). Instead a wealth of excellent opportunities now exists among new smaller companies (SMEs), the contract research sector (CROs), and charity funded organisations (3rd Sector).

The meeting will bring together speakers from both SME and CRO organisations to present the range of opportunities within these sectors.

Attendees

This meeting is aimed at PhDs/Post Docs in the chemical sciences interested in roles in the bio-medical sector, along with scientists from SMEs and CROs engaged in the field. There will be ample opportunity for students to meet and discuss their own individual thoughts with speakers and other company representatives.
