

CONSULTANCY GROUP

'Networking'

Networking is especially important to consultants and the introduction of internet-based communities such as MyRSC and LinkedIn gives networking opportunities that were not available to an earlier generation of consultants. However, face-to-face contact continues to be a tried and tested method for establishing relationships and taking our cue from 'Speed-dating' events, the Consultancy Group is conducting a 'Speed-Consulting' event which is intended to encourage contacts between members of the Consultancy Group which hopefully will lead to future joint consultancy ventures. The breadth of activity covered by members of the Consultancy Group is diverse and the meeting will give the opportunity for members to identify other consultants with expertise that complements or supplements their own. Delegates are encouraged to submit in advance a brief statement of their consultancy activities and expertise which can be presented at the meeting

Hence, the meeting, although primarily aimed at established consultants will also prove to be of value to those who may be embarking on that role in the future.

CPD certificates will be provided on request.
