

INDUSTRIAL PHARMACIST GROUP SEMINAR

THE CODE AT THE 'COAL FACE'

All you need to know about the ABPI Code of Practice for the Pharmaceutical Industry

Venue: Royal Pharmaceutical Society, 1 Lambeth High Street, London SE1 7JN

Date: Friday 17 October 2008

The seminar is aimed at:

- All industrial pharmacists working in sales and marketing, legal, regulatory or medical departments.
- Those working at the interface between marketing and the NHS especially Hospital and some Community Pharmacists.
- Those interacting with the pharmaceutical industry through contact with medical representatives, organising or attending industry meetings, using pharmaceutical company websites.
- Those responsible for producing material aimed at patients or general public and those working with patient organisations.
- Those wishing to learn more about the basics of the current new Code.

AGENDA

10.30 – 10.50 am	Coffee and registration
10.50 – 11.00 am	Chairman's opening remarks Jane Nicholson, Executive Director of European Industrial Pharmacists Group (EIPG)
11.00 – 11.30 am	The ABC of medicines advertising – is it accurate, balanced, clear? Jane Landles, Prescription Medicines Code of Practice Authority
11.30 – 12.00 noon	Putting principles into practice Jane Marshall, Sanofi-aventis

The morning session will cover all you need to know about how medicines advertising is controlled in the UK, focusing on both the legal requirements and the requirements of the ABPI Code of Practice for the Pharmaceutical Industry.

12.00 – 12.30 pm	Sandwich lunch
------------------	-----------------------

12.30 – 02.00 pm	Case study
------------------	-------------------

Practical examples will be used with the Case study to illustrate the requirements of the current Code, including the explanation of the compliance and complaints procedure.

Objectives:

- To introduce delegates to the requirements of the ABPI Code of Practice for the Pharmaceutical Industry and give them an understanding of how the advertising of medicines to members of the UK health professions and appropriate administrative staff is controlled.
- To allow delegates understand how non-promotional material about Prescription Only Medicines can be made available to the general public.
- To equip delegates to look critically at promotional material and to recognize when concerns should be raised as well as how to do so.

- To enable pharmacists to ensure that relations with the pharmaceutical industry are ethical and productive.

This course will be registered by the College of Pharmacy Practice as providing approx. 3 contact hours of post graduate education towards the College's continuing education requirement and a Certificate will be delivered to those attending the seminar.
