Academic Drug Discovery III

Tuesday 24 November 2015, SCI, London, UK

Synopsis

Academic groups are playing an increasingly important role in the new drug discovery ecosystem. This event will showcase a range of drug discovery programmes and provide illustrations of how different types of collaborations have led, and are leading to, successful drug candidates. Representatives from key groups in academia and those involved in transferring this technology to the pharmaceutical industry will be in attendance to share their insights. The event will also provide a forum for ample networking opportunities.

Attendees

The event will be of interest to academic researchers, CRO's, technology transfer representatives and pharma representatives interested in this emerging area and looking to make contact with leading exponents in this area.

Organising committee

Caroline Low, Computational Medicinal Chemistry Consultant, UK
Adrian Longstaff, Syngenta, UK
Kirsty Hewitson, Ploughshare Innovations, UK
Michael Willis, University of Oxford, UK
