

Water Quality 2012

19-21 September 2012

The 2nd International Water Quality Conference
Protecting our Water Resources: Issues for a Changing World

Water Quality 2012

Organised by the ACCWA project:

Approaching Climate Change for Water Resource Adaptation.

ACCWA is funded by the Worldwide Universities Network (WUN)

Introduction:

Water Quality 2012 offers a unique forum to discuss the many issues that affect the quality of water, from land management to water treatment processes. With a changing climate and growing global population, water resources will be under an enormous strain and it is important that water quality is maintained to ensure safe drinking water and water suitable for food production as well as considering the implications for the wider environment. This conference provides an opportunity to discuss current and emerging issues of relevance to global water resources.

Conference topics:

1. Water Policy and Management: Implications of Climate Change
2. Water Resources: Monitoring and Modelling
3. Water Quality: Urban and Rural Concerns
4. Water Supply: Groundwater and Surface Water Sustainability
5. Water Extremes: Floods and Droughts

Location:

The conference is hosted by Zhejiang University. Water Quality 2012 will take place at the JinXi Hotel & Conference Centre in Hangzhou, China. The hotel is situated close to the West Lake, a UNESCO World Heritage site, and Hangzhou city centre. The hotel is within easy reach of the railway station (8km) and airport (Hangzhou International Airport - 45km).

The conference is one of the most cost effective of its kind with delegate rates starting at ¥1000 including refreshments and lunch. Hotel accommodation is available at the conference venue.

Call for papers:

Deadline for abstracts is 20 April 2012.

Abstracts should be submitted as a Word document. Further details are available from the conference website: www.accwa.net

Abstract submission to water@leeds.ac.uk

Please direct all questions in the first instance to Rebecca Slack:

r.slack@leeds.ac.uk | +44 (0)113 343 3373

Further information and delegate registration can be found on the conference website:

www.accwa.net

Organising Committee Chairs:

Joseph Holden - University of Leeds

George Czapar - University of Illinois

Zhijian Zhang - Zhejiang University