

Electronic Supporting Information

Self-assembly of β -D glucose-stabilized Pt Nanocrystals into Nanowire-like Structures

Juncheng Liu*^{a, b}, Poovathinthodiyil Raveendran^a, Gaowu Qin,^a Yukata Ikushima*^a

^a Tohoku Center, National Institute of Advanced Industrial Science and Technology, 4-2-1 Nigatake, Miyagino-ku, Sendai
983-8551, Japan.

^b Department of Chemical Engineering, Auburn University, Auburn, Alabama 36849, USA

*Corresponding authors:

Yukata Ikushima

E-mail: y-ikushima@aist.go.jp, Tel: +81-022-237-5211, Fax: +81-022-232-7002.

Juncheng Liu

E-mail: liu.sam@eng.auburn.edu, Tel: (334) 844-2067, Fax: (334) 844-2063.

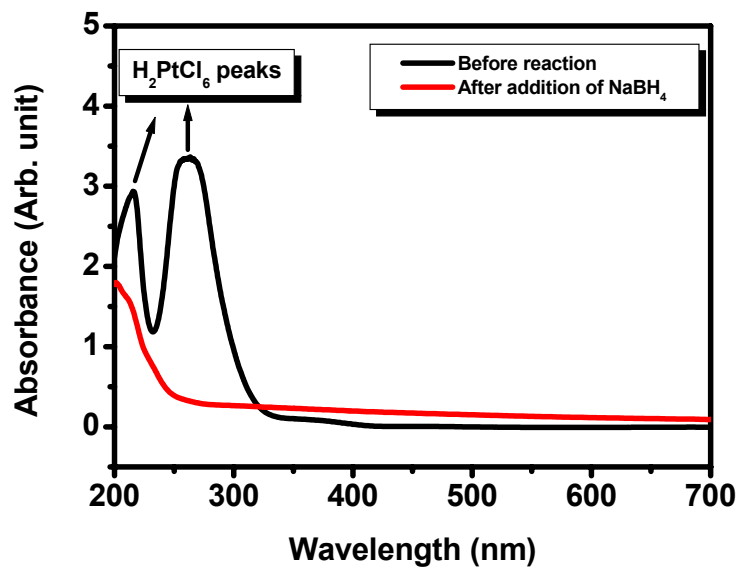

Figure S1. UV absorption spectra before and after the reduction reaction in aqueous β -D glucose dispersion (pH = 7.7)

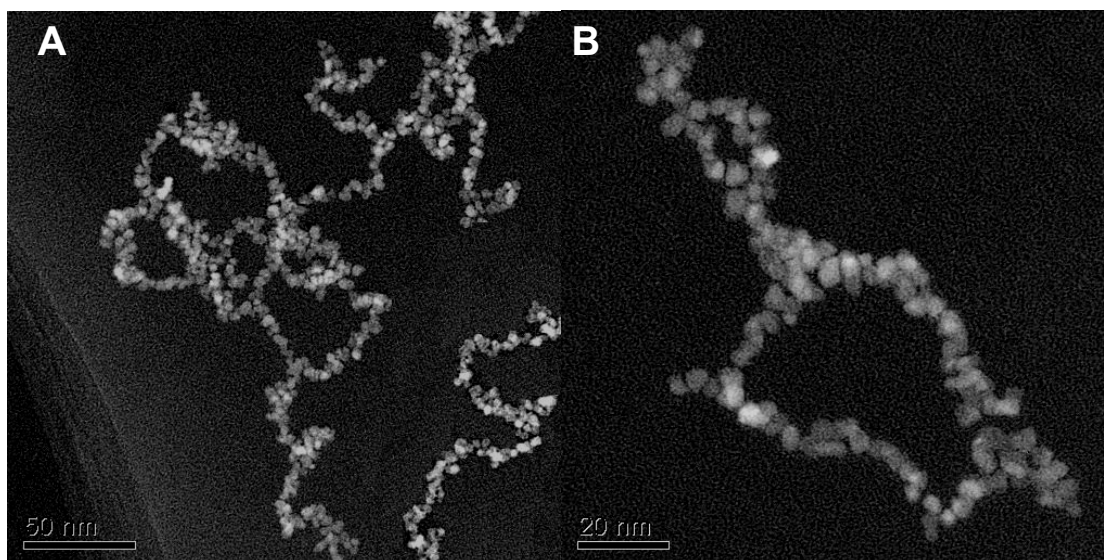

Figure S2. Representative TEM images of the Pt nanowire-like assemblies stabilized and structured-directed by β -D glucose (scale bar: (A) 50nm, (B) 20nm)