

A nanocrystalline TiO₂ dye-sensitized solar cell device consisting of dye 2 and fabricated with commercially available materials reaches a conversion efficiency of $\eta = 1.20\%$. Dye 2 is a low-cost and easily prepared copper(I) molecular sensitizer.