

Sulfonated carbons facilitate the eco-friendly transformation of limonene into valuable compounds, representing a noteworthy advancement in the field of catalysis.